No Home, No Help
The Effect of Stigma Against Homelessness in the Inpatient Setting

Cristina Vellozzi-Averhoff, BAS
MD/MA-Bioethics Student, Emory University

How does homelessness effect a patient's quality of care?

This presentation examines the history and prevalence of stigma against the homeless population, and the quality of care for the homeless compared to the non-homeless in the inpatient setting.

Research demonstrates that the homeless perceive inferior care, specifically inferior communication. We will discuss its implications for this population along with other findings.

Thursday, September 27, 2018 from 4 - 5 p.m.
Center for Ethics, Seminar Room 162
1531 Dickey Drive, Emory University Campus

To RSVP or join us Virtually, click here:
https://hcecg.org/event-3073915