“It’s All in the Stories: The Moral Work of Narrative”

March 17, 2016
6:30 p.m.
Emory Center for Ethics Commons 102

RSVP at HEC@emory.edu

Can stories do moral work? How can reading and interpreting literature develop skills with empathy, judgment, and moral decision making? Drawing on stories from E.B White to Toni Morrison, literary scholar and bioethicist Martha Montello examines the connections between narrative competence how we lead our lives.

Conference Sponsors:
• Children’s Healthcare of Atlanta
• Emory University Hospital/Emory Healthcare
• Hightower Fund
• Methodist LeBonheur Healthcare
• Nell Hodgson Woodruff School of Nursing of Emory University
• Spiritual Health at Emory Healthcare